Work Starts on Scout Hall

With all material necessary on hand work commenced Monday on renovation of the Carbon Scout Hall. The Lions Club roofing committee was hard at work Monday morning and despite the cold weather had the aluminum roofing in place by Wednesday noon.

Work on the interior commenced Wednesday afternoon and a group of Lions and volunteer workers were busy tearing down plaster as we go to press.

The interior work is the biggest undertaking of the project and what with removal of plaster and replacing with Ten-Test will take some time to complete. The Lions Club will be grateful of any volunteer work to speed completion of the project and have the hall ready for use at an early date. All those wishing to help need only to report at the hall.

Toronto Sees Steer Roped

TORONTO—The railway loud-speaker boomed in terrifying tones:

'Hold everything, there's a wild steer coming down the tracks.'

Headed back to its home on the Alberta range, a Hereford steer scooted across a west-end street, through a parking lot and down the railway right-of-way — with three brave western cowpokes reaching for its tail.

Finally Keith Halstead of Carbon, John Janz of Coaldale and Oran Hart of Claresholm managed to throw a rope around the animal, intended for exhibition at the Royal Winter Fair. — The Calgary Herald

Production Of Pure Seed Grain Down

SASKATOON. — Production of registered and certified seed grain is down 50 per cent. from last year, it was estimated by seed growers from Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba meeting here.

The largest reported reduction by a province in any one grain was in Saskatchewan. Production of registered and certified wheat was estimated at only 1,000,000 bushels, compared with 3,800,000 bushels in 1949.

Growers said even this estimate is contingent on harvesting without further deterioration, of the considerable amount of grain still lying in swaths or waiting to be combined.

Jim Farquharson, president of the Saskatchewan branch of the Canadian Seed Growers' association, said growers are having the same difficulties as other farmers with frosted grain and the delayed harvest. However, he expressed belief that—despite the decreased production of registered and certified seed—there will be enough seed for all farmers in 1951.

Alberta had indicated it would need some Saskatchewan registered wheat. There might be some demand for this seed grain by the United States.

Under these circumstances and with some of the seed crop not harvested yet, an estimate now could be all wrong of the situation next spring.

Firing Guns Fail To Spoil Appetite

A lull during a bombardment by H.M.C.S. Athabaskan of enemy positions off the west coast of Korea gives four members of one of the Canadian destroyer's gun crews a chance to relax. Government Buys Irrigation Company

REGINA. — Rt. Hon. James G. Gardiner, agriculture minister, announced here the purchase of a large irrigation company in southern Alberta by the dominion government.

Approval to purchase the assets of the company, Canada Land and Irrigation company, of Medicine Hat, for $2,250,000 was given by parliament a year ago but arrangements to get clear title from shareholders have just been completed.

The transaction involves 110,000 acres of irrigable land, of which 57,000 acres now is irrigated. Development of the remainder for irrigation will begin in 1951. Prairie farm rehabilitation officials said.

Purpose of the project is to provide irrigated land for re-settlement and rehabilitation of drouth hit Alberta and Saskatchewan farmers.

Canada's Honey Crop Shows Drop

OTTAWA. — Canada's honey crop totalled 30,717,000 pounds, below average, this year, due mainly to a decline in average production for each colony, the bureau of statistics reported.

The 1949 crop was 33,204,000. Average production in the five years, 1945-49, was 34,326,000 pounds. Average yield for each colony fell from 66 pounds to 61 pounds.

In Manitoba, however, the honey crop stood at 6,282,000 pounds against 5,586,000 in 1949.

Advertisement For Democracy

Modern Home Draws Gasps Of Admiration

BERLIN, Germany.—Democracy's famous "showcase" behind the Iron Curtain in Berlin suddenly is attracting a daily stream of thousands of wide-eyed visitors from the Soviet zone of Germany in one of the most remarkable peacetime invasions since the war.

The powerful attraction is West Berlin's enormously successful international industrial fair, in which the American exhibit consists not only of the handsome new George C. Marshall House but also of a six-room model home, shipped in sections and set up in the Funkturm exhibition grounds in 10 24-hour working days.

Germans are flocking to the fair at the rate of 40,000 a day. By setting up separate windows for the sale of admission tickets to residents of West and East Germany (one West German mark is worth about four East German marks), it has been determined that approximately one-third of the visitors are from the Russian zone.

The exhibition is providing the Germans with a striking joint display of democratic economic strength on the international front and social achievement on the home front.

The Marshall House, which was financed with E.C.A.-allocated counterpart funds, will remain as a permanent centre for American exhibits and conferences. Its initial contribution for the current industrial fair consists of vivid scale-models of typical North American communities depicting educational, religious, cultural, industrial and social activities.

An electrically-animated diorama showing typical Canadian, American and British industrial communities humming with activity has been surrounded by crowds of fascinated Germans, four deep, each day since the fair opened.

In other wings of the George C. Marshall House are library and a 220-seat cinema theatre, offering continuous showings of sound and color films of the new world at work and at play.

Representatives of business groups and trade unions are on hand in adjoining rooms for continuous conferences with German business men and workers concerning expanding trade operations with other countries and labor conditions in America, respectively.

For the entire German family, represented by thousands of such groups which pour through the gates for an exciting day at the fair, one of the most wondrous attractions is the tidy six-room white frame home, of a design that can be seen in every Canadian community and complete with one-car garage and connecting breezeway, which is designed to show how the average worker and his family live under a system of democracy and free enterprise.

An average of 2,500 visitors are streaming through the little house each day in groups of 10, which are under the guidance of four German girls studying history and current institutions at Berlin's Free university.

The tour carries them through an attractively furnished living room; a dining alcove (table laid for four); bedrooms with astonishing built-in, sliding-door closets; a gleaming tiled bathroom, and a model kitchen with electrical appliances which already are the talk of Berlin.

A current German news weekly features a cartoon depicting an irate wife berating her husband for arriving home at a late hour and in a foggy state of mind. She scornfully remarks:

"You say you've seen a machine that not only makes toast but tosses it out upon the breakfast table. You tell me you've seen a vacuum sweeper with an electric headlight. And you expect me to believe you've been to the Industrial Exhibition!"

A constant stream of pop-eyed Germans visit the American Home exhibit, complete with garage and car.

FROM A LONG LINE OF TREE

PLANTERS—One of the many royal traditions in England is that royalty shall plant a tree at Balliol, and if possible smile in public. Both customs were upheld by Princess Margaret, shown smiling enchantingly during her first official visit to Oxford university. She planted a mulberry tree in the garden quadrangle, to keep company with other mulberries planted by predecessors.

TRY AND STOP ME!

Timid salesmen who give up too easily may learn a valuable lesson from a little poem, called The Secret of Closing Sales:

He asked if she ever could love him,
She answered him, no, on the spot.
He asked if she ever could love him,
She assured him again she could not.

He asked if she ever could love him,
She laughed till his blushes he hid.
He asked if she ever could love him,
By Gosh, she admitted she did.

Magistrate S. Tupper Bigelow of Toronto tells the tale of a young doctor who hung up his shingle in a small town and waited for his first patient. Some days later one arrived—covered from head to foot with an angry, dangerous-looking rash. The puzzled young medico hastily consulted his text book but could find no help there. Finally he said to the patient, "Did you ever have this affliction before?" "Oh, sure, Doc," the patient replied. "I've had it twice before." "Well," diagnosed the doctor, "you've got it again."

HEALTH

Immunization Checks Disease And Lowers Child Death Rates

The child death-rate in Canada would be lowered greatly if two of the major preventable diseases could only be brought under control, it is stated by the Health League of Canada.

There were 79 deaths from 798 cases of diphtheria in Canada in 1949, and 202 deaths from 7,942 cases of whooping cough, the Health League says. These 281 deaths were unnecessary because both diphtheria and whooping cough are preventable.

It is pointed out that toxoid is still the perfect diphtheria preventive and that there is a vaccine which is most effective in checking whooping cough. Even in the few instances where this vaccine does not prevent the onset of the disease, it resolves the case into a mild attack.

Diphtheria toxoid and whooping cough vaccine are available everywhere, the Health League statement says, and the 281 reported deaths are the responsibility of those who failed to have the children under their care properly immunized. In many instances health authorities and private physicians give diphtheria toxoid, whooping cough vaccine and tetanus toxoid in the one injection.

The Health League issued the following five-year table of Canadian diphtheria and whooping cough case and death statistics—

	1949	1948	1947	1946	1945
Cases	798	898	1,550	2,535	2,786
Deaths	79	85	140	229	270

	1949	1948	1947	1946	1945
Cases	7,942	7,084	10,321	7,676	12,192
Deaths	202	155	232	226	457

Shooting Ducks Camera Style

PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE.—Ducks migrating to this area are going to be "shot"—but they won't mind it.

The shooting will be done by Julian St. George, a cameraman with the National Film Board. He will also photograph the annual duck shooting season.

Last year he photographed the life sequence of ducks and geese at the Delta Research Station here.

PRAISES CANADIANS

VANCOUVER.—Canadian actors are just as good as most of Broadway's stars, says Actress Joy Coghill. She has returned home after two years at the Goodman Memorial Theatre, Chicago, to be co-director of the Vancouver Everyman Theatre and will also teach a drama class at the University of British Columbia.

The Empire State building is 375 feet higher than the Queen Mary is long.

On The Side : By E. V. Durling

What does your secretary have for breakfast? Does she go for the "stenographer's breakfast", that is, orange juice, coffee and a cigarette? That's bad. She will not be at her best in the morning. She will have gone at least 15 hours without any body fuel supply. As one medical specialist put it: "That's like asking a railway engine to go without steam." The best kind of secretary to have is one who has ham and eggs, toast and coffee for breakfast. So the next time you engage a secretary or stenographer don't forget to ask her what kind of breakfast she has.

Rich Enough To Qualify

Who is the world's richest man? That's a query which seems to be much discussed at this time. Subscribers keep asking me to decide arguments on the subject. I don't know the answer. However, I can tell you who seems on the way to rate that title. It is Sheikh Sir Ahmad Al-Jobir As-Subah, sultan of Kuwait. The sheik now enjoys an income equal to $800,000 a month. This is a net income. No taxes on it. Is derived from oil leases.

Motorists Salutations

In France hitch-hikers are known as "le stop-stops". Another interesting angle of the French auto driving situation is when one autoist wants to hurl the supreme insult at another driver he shouts: "Ecole! ecole!" which means: "Why don't you go to an auto school and learn how to drive." Autoists in this country have no insult that is particularly popular except the one male autoists often toss at female drivers namely: "That's just like a woman." This crack certainly burns the ladies up. So far, they do not seem to have found a suitable reply to it.

It Leads To Longevity

Twice as many men as women suffer from heart diseases and stomach ulcers. The majority of the sufferers from these ailments are married men. They are partly brought on by worry or strain. If you are a young fellow make up your mind right now to study relaxation. Take it easy. If you are a young married woman do all you can to make your husband relax. Don't let your spouse's ambitions, or any ambitions of yours, push him along at too rapid a pace. If you follow this advice your chances of dancing together at a golden wedding party will be greatly increased.

Irish Human

What follows is a jest from the Irish Digest: Said the judge: "You are charged with throwing your mother-in-law out of the window. Guilty or not guilty?" Said the defendant: "Guilty, your honor, I did it without thinking." Said the judge: "That's no excuse. You might have hit somebody on the head."

Even As You And I

Not long ago there was a horse who could win a race easily one day and the next time out finish last. Because of this continuous reversal of form the stewards ruled the horse won on sunny days and lost on rainy or damp, foggy days. He mentioned this to a veterinarian. This gave the "vet" an idea. He examined the horse and found the animal suffered from rheumatism. Consequently he felt like running on warm days and just couldn't run on damp days because of his rheumatic condition. Keep this in mind. Don't condemn horses as quitters or their owners or riders as crooks before all the evidence is in. Horses have many human traits and suffer many ailments similar to those of man. Some days they feel fine and full of pep and sometimes, for a variety of reasons, they don't. Even as you and I

Children Eager To Learn Crafts

WINNIPEG.—"Teach them when they're young" is the motto of the Winnipeg Public Parks Board.

Since 1947 the board has offered school children half-term courses in clay modelling, leather work, glass painting, wood work, plaster moulding and art. Tools, instruction and materials are free. Children may choose any course they wish.

The handicraft class enrolls 500 students a year but many more apply. Classes are held in Winnipeg Civic Auditorium.

Supervisor Margaret Wilson says parents are highly interested in the plan.

"As long as there is a planned program, the children attend faithfully," she said. "They never want to go home."

"Men are only grown-up boys."

VIENNA'S CUTEST—This chubby little cherub, 11-month-old Marion Wolff, stole the hearts of the judges in a recent baby contest, to win the title "Vienna's cutest baby". She took the top honors over dozens of baby beauties competing in the event.—Central Press Canadian.

KITCHEN MEDITATIONS

By JANE DALE

ALWAYS ROOM FOR ONE MORE

Every place is filled when mealtime comes along;
There seems no room to set another there.
Yet when a hungry man comes knocking at the door
There is room for him and you set another chair!
The house is full; its old walls fairly bulge
When all the family seek its sheltering door.
Yet let there come one homeless or alone
You quickly say there's lots of room for more!

The heart is full of cherished ones and dear;
So full 'tis felt no more love could it share.
But there comes one in need of tenderness;
The heart opens and you have more love to spare!

Fearless Olga Frei, 21, skipped on to the stage of the Empire theatre in Croydon, England. Smiling as ever, she leaned back against a big, soft board, while a blindfolded knife-thrower hurled knives and hatchets around her body. Half-way through the act she sank to the floor in a swoon. The audience screamed. Said Olga: "I felt something on my leg. It looked like a spider." Assured there were no spiders present, Olga went on with the act.

Convenient Bicycle Stand

WE are publishing herewith a drawing of a bicycle stand which should be satisfactory for the purpose. This stand is made entirely of 1 1/2 inch square lumber, which can be secured by ripping dressed 2 by 4 scantlings down the middle. Your sloping supports are spaced 6 inches clear which is ample space for practically any bicycle. There are three runners, two along the floor and one at the top which are half-lapped into the end pieces where they are joined. Fastenings should be wood screws rather than nails as a more permanent job will be secured this way. If it is more convenient to have a shorter stand than one in which the bicycles are all placed on one side, this stand can be doubled in width so as to provide support for bicycles from each side.

Drawing shows bicycle stand using 1 1/2-in.-sq. lumber throughout.

Farmers Going Into Hog Production

WINNIPEG.—Frank Baker, field man for a packing company said Saskatchewan farmers seem to be going into hog production so frosted wheat can be used as feed.

Mr. Baker said the percentage of young sows in Saskatchewan packing-house kills has dropped from an average of 45 per cent. to 30 per cent.

The withholding of sows when the breeding season is approaching is probably an indication of farmers' plans for more hog production, he said.

Helpful Hints

Clean pearls once a month. Use a soft brush, carefully working warm soapsuds around pearls and into the cord. Rinse thoroughly, brushing clear water into the drill holes and cord knots. Rub dry in a soft, clean towel. When you're not wearing them, place pearls on a soft fabric, so they won't get scratched.

A silver teapot soon becomes brown inside. Soda water is excellent for removing tannin stains. Place a lump of soda in the pot and pour in boiling water. Leave for twenty-four hours; wash out with very hot water.

Black hair ribbons that have begun to look shabby and wilted can be renovated by sponging thoroughly with vinegar. Roll them and allow to stand for a short time. Then iron on the wrong side.

Giraffes, contrary to popular conception, are very swift runners.

Toronto, Boston Ice Youngest Clubs This Season

Toronto Maple Leafs and Boston Bruins have the youngest teams in the National Hockey League this season. The Leafs, known for their youthful clubs the past few years, have an over-all team average among the 19 players on their roster of 24.9 years. Average age of the 18 players on the 1950-51 edition of the Boston Bruins is an even 25 years.

Montreal Canadiens, oldest team in the League last season, have youthified their club considerably this season, and are now the third youngest sextet in the circuit. Average age of the 18 wearers of the bleu-blanc-rouge is 25.7 years. Detroit Red Wings are the next youngest team in the League. The 19 players on the roster of the Stanley Cup champions average 25.8 years per player.

Chicago and New York, the two biggest cities in the N.H.L., have the most veterans on their clubs. The average age of the 19 members of the Black Hawks is 26.6, while the average age of the 19 players on the New York Rangers is an even 27 years.

The Rangers have six players on their roster who've had 30 or more birthdays. Chicago has five players in the 30 or better category. Detroit and Montreal each have three players 30 years or above on their rosters, while Boston and Toronto each have two players who've gone over the 30 mark.

The two "babies" of the N.H.L. this season are Paul Masnick of Canadiens and Danny Lewicki of Toronto. These youthful forwards are both 19, but Masnick was born in March, 1931, and is one month younger than Lewicki. There are five players in the League who are just 20. Lorne Ferguson and Dave Creighton of Boston are 20, as are Terry Sawchuk and Marcel Prono-

Calls His Cows Home With Bugle

FENNVILLE, Mich.—Farmer Ami Miller said that he has 13 musical cows who gallop up to the barn to be milked whenever he blows "his bugle," but only one of 'em will dance.

"When I blow my bugle and the herd comes home," he said, "she runs all the way and wiggles her hips a little more than the others."

To further illustrate his point, Miller said he put a radio in his barn "just for the cows."

He said "that dancing cow likes to sway with classical stuff, but she stomps her hooves and moos whenever any jazz music comes on."

Miller a former high school music teacher at Seattle and Spokane, Wash., started calling his cows home with a bugle several years ago.

"I don't know why everyone thinks it's so strange for cows to like music," the 72-year-old farmer said. "From what I've seen, these jerseys have better taste in music than most of the bobby soxers in town."

most of Detroit and Jackie McLeod of Rangers.

Turk Broda, venerable goaltender of the Toronto Maple Leafs, is the oldest player in the National League at 36. Buddy O'Connor of the Rangers and Doug Bentley and Roy Conacher of Chicago are second to Broda in point of years. All three have celebrated their 34th birthday. Chicago's Jack Stewart and Boston's Woody Dumart are next at 33, while six players report in at 32 years of age. They are Pat Egan, New York; Billy Reay and Elmer Lach, Canadiens; Joe Carveth and Sid Abel, Detroit; and Milt Schmidt, Boston.

The average N.H.L. player, this season is 25.8 years of age. Last season the average age was 25.5, while two years ago the average player was 25.4 years of age.

Researchers Marry Science And Industry

By Richard S. Bloch
(CPC Correspondent)

COLUMBUS, O. — Visitors to the Battelle Memorial Institute, largest independent research organization in the world, are treated to a peek at another world.

A visit to Battelle reveals 1,300 persons employed at Battelle working with equipment of every imaginable type from complete foundries to minute test tubes. These persons, intent on improving your future, are conducting research on everything from insect repellants to new type railroad locomotives.

The staff, consisting of nuclear physicists, electrochemists, plant physiologists, ceramic technologists, metallurgists, mathematicians, chemists, engineers, and other specialists pool their talents for a cross section of industry and the government.

Battelle undergoes research for big companies or small, sometimes working in behalf of an entire industry. The personnel, plant, and equipment of the institute are available to the sponsor, whose only cost is for the direct research, plus part of the general expense.

Several years ago the American association of Oil-Well Drilling Contractors came to Battelle with a tough problem. Oil well drillers in western Texas and New Mexico were losing thousands of dollars from breakage of drill strings, which are joined sections of steel pipe used for drilling beneath the earth's surface in search of oil.

Battelle discovered the cause—corrosion and constant stresses—and after weeks of testing and experimenting, found a solution to the situation.

In research on the use of metals and chemicals in agriculture, test plots showed a 20 per cent. increase in tobacco growth when copper sulfate was added to the soil. Indications are that "copper-hunger" in some areas may be affecting other crops such as cotton, potatoes, and soy beans.

This institute developed an alloy for a national watch company. Watch springs made from the material are resistant to corrosion and stay strong for a longer period of time. A watch was dropped into a powerful acid—nothing was left but the spring made from the alloy.

Barnacles and other marine animals have a habit of attaching themselves to the bottoms of vessels, causing loss of speed, and necessitating frequent dry docking for the removal. A new barnacle-repelling paint developed at Battelle has eliminated much of this problem and has reduced the cost of operating and maintaining ships.

If your eye is on the eternal, your intellect will grow, and your opinions and actions will have a beauty which no learning or combined advantages of other men can rival.—Emerson.

Bill Forgot To Be Gentle. He Forgot Everything Except Her Anger And His Love.

By Bertha Zelda Beck

BILL wanted to push his way through the mob on the floor and take Kitty into his arms and make her say she'd marry him. The band was working on a rumba and the air rocked in rhythm. Kitty wore one of those off-shoulder strapless gowns. She was dancing with a guy named Edward.

Kitty was really a nice, sensible, serious-minded girl. She hadn't believed him when he had proposed last night. How did a fellow get a girl to say yes?

One of Bill's friends, with a sister on his arm, was bearing down with intentions. Bill adroitly dodged and cut in on Edward.

CHELSEA BUN LOAF

Make 3 pans of buns from this one recipe—dough will keep in refrigerator for a week.

Scald $\frac{1}{4}$ c. milk, $\frac{1}{4}$ c. granulated sugar, $1\frac{1}{2}$ tps. salt and $\frac{1}{4}$ c. shortening; cool to lukewarm. Meanwhile, measure into a large bowl $\frac{1}{2}$ c. lukewarm water, 1 tsp. granulated sugar; stir until sugar is dissolved. Sprinkle with 1 envelope Fleischmann's Royal Fast Rising Dry Yeast. Let stand 10 mins., THEN stir well. Add cooled milk mixture and stir in 1 well-beaten egg. Stir in 2 c. once-sifted bread flour; beat until smooth. Work in $2\frac{1}{2}$ c. once-sifted bread flour. Knead on lightly-floured board until smooth and elastic. Cut off $\frac{1}{2}$ of dough, knead into a smooth ball, place in greased bowl, grease top of dough, cover and store in refrigerator until wanted. Shape remaining $\frac{1}{2}$ of dough into a smooth ball, place in greased bowl and grease top. Cover and set in warm place, free from draught. Let rise until doubled in bulk. Cream $\frac{1}{2}$ tbs. butter or margarine and blend in $\frac{1}{2}$ c. brown sugar (lightly pressed down), $1\frac{1}{2}$ tps. ground cinnamon and $\frac{1}{2}$ tbs. corn syrup; spread about $\frac{1}{2}$ of this mixture in bottom of a greased loaf pan ($4\frac{1}{2}$ " x $8\frac{1}{2}$ ") and sprinkle with pecan halves. Punch down risen dough and roll out into an 8" square; loosen dough. Spread with remaining sugar mixture and sprinkle with $\frac{1}{2}$ c. raisins. Loosely roll up like a jelly roll. Cut roll into 6 slices. Place in prepared pan. Grease tops. Cover and let rise until doubled in bulk. Bake in moderate oven, 350° , 25-30 mins. Let stand in pan for 5 mins. before turning out.

"You always make me so unhappy, I could—"

"Kit," he said, his voice firm for the first time with her, as firm as it was with everyone else. "Listen closely. It's high time I treated you like a human being, and not like a china doll the way I have, off my nut with loving you. Your gown is high fashion. You are going to take my arm, as soon as this dance ends, and we are going to walk to the lounge where you'll get the matron to sew you together. If you keep your temper, your dress will stay up. But if you let yourself go, I'll be right behind you, ready to signal a photographer."

The lights were dim now. "You're beautiful," he whispered. "And I love you. Are you listening?"

"Yes."

He picked her off the floor then, and held her so close she could hardly breathe. She kicked and one of her toeless, strapless shoes fell off.

"Let me down!"

He kissed her firmly on the lips, and he forgot to be gentle. He forgot everything except her anger and his love.

He somehow had not expected her kiss. He put her back on her feet. "You shouldn't have done that," he said. "You'll never be the same again."

She was clinging to him. "And you?"

"How can a fellow be the same when there's high fashion and a girl's wired and there's a short? Go get yourself sewed together. And I'm not taking no for an answer. It's high time . . ."

It was and she gave it to him.

"Yes."
